

A vibrant street scene in Havana, Cuba. The background features the Hotel Inglaterra, a grand white building with a green dome and ornate balconies. To the left, a tall, ornate stone tower rises above the trees. The foreground is filled with lush green palm trees and other tropical foliage. A classic green car is visible on the street, and several people are walking along the sidewalk. A vintage-style street lamp is on the far left. The word "CUBA" is superimposed in large, bold, black letters across the center of the image.
